

Brass and Horn Lantern - Part one

The Body

The picture below shows the decorative brass plate that the body has been made from. The plate has hammered decoration and I had to burn off some form of coating from the metal.

To the left are the copper rivets made from a heavy piece of copper wire melted at one end. The body made from three pieces of brass sheet and the wooden base.

Below are the Hood, body and base. The body needs more plenishing, but never really got it!

Here are some close-ups of the lantern fully riveted together
